HOCHTIEF Facility Management and Siemens Technopark in Mülheim an der Ruhr have been working together since 2002 and have now extended their contract, initially until the end of September 2012. The Essen-based service provider is responsible for the technical and infrastructural facility management of the facility. It was agreed that no details of the contract volume would be disclosed.

At the 240,000 square meter Siemens Technopark, HOCHTIEF is responsible for the technical and infrastructural facility management of 14 buildings with a floor area of over 90,000 square meters. Services provided include the servicing and maintenance of all technical systems such as heating, cooling, sprinklers and cranes, as well as their operation. The Technopark's anchor tenant is Siemens AG Energy Sector, and it is also home to other industry and service companies, as well as educational and vocational training facilities.
